The Difficult Coexistence: Europe and the Ottoman Empire in the Long 19th Century doc. PhDr. Miroslav Šedivý, Ph.D.

General description of the course

The coexistence of Europe and the Ottoman Empire had serious consequences for the development of the two 'worlds' during the long 19th century, as well as between Europe and the post-Ottoman regions in Asia and Africa today. The topicality is further emphasized by the complexity of their mutual relations with all their political as well as economic, social, religious, cultural and military aspects. Although the lectures are primarily structured in a chronological way, each of them will also introduce a specific issue important for the interrelationship of the so-called Orient and Occident.
